RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON INLAND EMIGRATION FOR THE YEAR 1888.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—INLAND EMIGRATION.

Darjeeling, the 27th May, 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report of the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, No. 837, dated the 30th April 1889, on Inland Emigration, for the year 1888.

Personal.

The office of Superintendent of Emigration was held during the early part of the year by Dr. Grant, the permanent incumbent, Dr. Gregg, and then Dr. Comins officiating subsequently. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are conveyed to all three officers for their attention to their duties during what has been an unusually trying season.

Recruitment.

2. It has been remarked in more than one previous Resolution that the number of labourers recruited by persons licensed to make engagements under Act I of 1882 was rapidly decreasing, having fallen from 31,286 in 1884 to 9,693 in 1887. During 1888 this tendency was checked, the number recruited in the manner indicated rising to 13,548. The falling off in former years was due to the development of free emigration, or unlicensed recruiting; while the reaction which has now set in is attributed by the Superintendent to the discouragement of that system by employers, owing to the increased expense of obtaining labourers under it, and the insecurity attending their conveyance to their destination. The Superintendent will be requested to report to Government any information which he may possess as to this enhancement in the cost of free recruiting, the subject being one of the first importance. Notwithstanding the appreciable increase in the number of labourers recruited under the Act, the great majority of emigrants are still conveyed by private arrangement, as appears from the fact that 21,851 were conducted on this system to the Assam Valley during the year, of whom 21,323 executed statutory contracts at Dhubri. The number of free emigrants to Sylhet and Cachar is not known. The great bulk of the registered labourers are classified as engaged by garden sirdars, but it is understood that the importance of the distinction between recruitment by sirdars and recruitment by contractors has diminished in recent years, as most of the sirdars now work under local agents, who are in reality contractors. The whole subject of recruitment in its various forms is under consideration with a view to the correction of abuses recently disclosed.

Sanitary condition of licensed depôts.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the Superintendent is able to report favourably of the condition of the depôts in which registered labourers are detained pending their removal to Assam. It is stated that there was no overcrowding, that the conservancy arrangements were satisfactory, the water-supply was good, the food sufficient and wholesome, and that the percentage of sickness was 2·3 to the total population, a proportion which does not appear to be excessive. As to the deaths which occurred, the report states that the rate of mortality during the past three years was—

In 1886	... ... 2·4 per mille of total admissions into depôt.
„ 1887	... ... 1·3	ditto	ditto.
„ 1888	... ... 2·1	ditto	ditto.

Cholera prevailed to some extent during the year under review in the recruiting districts and in the Suburbs of Calcutta, and two cases occurred in one of the depôts among emigrants who were recruited in the Suburbs. The patients were at once removed to the Campbell Hospital, and both ultimately recovered.

The causes of mortality in the depôts were—

Pneumonia	... ...	1
Anæmia and gangrene	... ...	1
Premature birth	... ...	1
Total	...	3

If the last death be excluded, as it should be, from the list of depôt casualties, the year's percentage of mortality will be nearly the same as that of 1887.

The Superintendent does not refer to the depôts for unregistered emigrants, which have not hitherto been under his supervision: but it is known from other sources that in these there is much room for improvement, and an Act has been recently passed to ensure their inspection in future.

Transport.

4. Detailed information is given in the report as to the labourers conveyed viâ Goalundo, by which route 2,551 were taken to Assam, 552 to Cachar, and 81 to Sylhet. Among those proceeding by Goalundo to Assam, there were seven deaths from cholera. But there are no returns as to the emigrants adopting the Dhubri route, who now constitute the great majority, and no remarks as to them are offered in the report. The facts come more fully before the Assam Administration, but it is known to this Government that great mortality occurred during the year on this line, over six hundred emigrants having died from cholera. The Superintendent will be requested to collect what information he can as to transport by the Dhubri route, and to embody it in future reports. He has taken much interest in effecting improvements, and the absence of reference to the subject under the head of Transport is no doubt due only to the want of official returns and to the system on which these reports have hitherto been compiled.

Administrative measures.

5. The Superintendent notices that, in consequence of the outbreak of cholera, emigration from certain districts was at first discouraged, and in April absolutely prohibited by an order under Act I of 1882. He observes—

With a view to preventing the spread of cholera among coolies under conveyance to Assam, the agency that was employed in 1887 for the medical inspection of coolies at Mugra station, East Indian Railway, was in April 1888, with the sanction of Government, transferred to Naihati station, Eastern Bengal State Railway, where coolies proceeding direct by the Hughli bridge are detained for a few hours in the rest-houses or depôts before resuming the journey to Dhubri. The establishment of a cholera hospital at Kurigram station, Kaunia and Dharla State Railway, was also sanctioned for six months of every year, from January to June, under the supervision of the Civil Hospital Assistant, who was required to medically inspect all coolies en route to Jatrapore Ghât for embarkation for Dhubri, and to detain for medical treatment every coolie found to be suffering from cholera.

In July 1888 the necessity for the disinfection of railway carriages used by coolies was brought to the notice of the Railway Authorities.

The question also of securing improvements in respect of the treatment of coolies in railway carriages during conveyance to the places of embarkation for the labour districts came under the consideration of Government, and the then Officiating Superintendent of Emigration, Surgeon-Major W. H. Gregg, submitted the following suggestions:—

(a) That railway carriages should be strictly reserved for conveyance of coolies, and a fixed number only be allowed to travel in each carriage.

(b) That in view of the established fact that the risk of an outbreak of cholera is greater in proportion to the larger number of coolies, especially junglis, brought together, the number of emigrants under despatch at one and the same time should be limited.

(c) That medical inspection of every batch under despatch from Ranigunge or other forwarding station should be insisted on with a view to the detention of every coolie found unfit to proceed.

(d) That the long train journey to Dhubri should be divided into stages, and that halts at certain convenient stations, such as (1) Naihati or Kanchrapara, (2) Sara, and (3) Parbatipore, should be provided by despatchers of emigrants to afford opportunities for resting and feeding, the first-named stations answering also as halting places for emigrants travelling to Goalundo for embarkation.

In August 1888 the insanitary state of the coolie depôts at Ranigunge having been brought to the notice of Government, an enquiry was ordered, and Dr. Gregg reported the sanitary arrangements of some 20 to 25 depôts belonging to known persons, and those of many private depôts, to be very defective, and the necessity for bringing all depôts, including those for free labourers, under sanitary protection to be urgent.

In December 1888 the Embarkation Agent at Goalundo was instructed, in accordance with the suggestion of the Chief Commissioner of Assam, to inform by telegram the district officers concerned of the prevalence of cholera among the coolies embarking for conveyance to the tea gardens, so that precautionary measures might be adopted on their arrival at their destination to prevent the spreading of the disease.

As the year under review was drawing to a close, a few cases of cholera among coolies travelling by the Eastern Bengal State Railway were reported, and the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, was directed to inspect the depôts or rest-houses from which the infected coolies were despatched, with a view to the introduction of such sanitary improvement as might be possible.

The steps taken by this Government through the police to prosecute offences committed in the course of obtaining recruits are not referred to in the report, as they did not come under the cognizance of the Superintendent: but it may be mentioned that in this respect, as well as in regard to sanitary measures, action has been taken during the year which is of great importance in the interest of organized and protected emigration.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORTS OF THE REFORMATORY SCHOOLS AT ALIPORE AND HAZARIBAGH FOR THE YEAR 1888.

JAILS.

Darjeeling, the 3rd June 1889.

READ—

(1) Letter No. 3438, dated the 6th May 1889, from the Inspector-General of Jails, forwarding the Report of the Administration of the Alipore Reformatory School for the year 1888.

(2) Letter No. 3439, dated the 6th May 1889, from the Inspector-General of Jails, forwarding the Report of the Administration of the Hazaribagh Reformatory School for the year 1888.

Read also—

The Reports for the year 1887, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

At the Alipore School the number of boys at the commencement of the year 1888 was 108, and at its close 106. 24 were admitted during the year, while 25 were released and 1 escaped through the negligence of a warder, who was put on trial and sentenced to imprisonment. There were no serious offences, and discipline was maintained with a smaller number of punishments than in 1887. Punishment by cutting marks appears to have been in a great measure superseded by direct fines of money earned by the boys. There was a decrease in the number of cases in which penal diet was resorted to as a punishment, while more boys were punished by being locked up in cells. The health of the school was remarkably good. Admissions to hospital fell from 2·73 in 1887 to 2·43 in 1888; and it is satisfactory to observe that there was no casualty during the year.

2. No change has been made in the way in which the day is divided between school and work, except in the hour of lock up, which has been changed from 6-30 to 6 P.M. The boys work for seven hours, and have in addition one hour of compulsory school. They can also attend the night school from 6 to 8 P.M. It is satisfactory to observe that the average number of boys present at the night school increased from 90 in 1887 to 98 in 1888. Here and at Hazaribagh English is taught to the more advanced boys The mark system continued to work well. The number of boys entitled to marks increased, and the average weekly earnings rose from Rs. 2-0-4 in 1887 to Rs 2-4-3. The total amount earned during the year was Rs. 208-6, including payments for extra work, of which Rs. 155-4 were deposited in the Government Savings Bank.

3. Of 64 released boys, concerning whom reports were received, it appears that 9, or 14·06 per cent were in jail. 6 only out of 64 follow the trades they learned at school, 9 boys cannot be traced, and 1 has died; the remaining 45 boys are said to bear a good character.

4. The cost of maintenance fell from Rs. 126-1-10 to Rs. 125-9-6 for each boy, while the cost of diet rose from Rs. 3,156-4-9 in 1887 to Rs. 3,277-14-3, owing to the higher rates paid for articles of rations.

5. The manufactory account shows a profit to the school of Rs. 7,023 against Rs. 8,521-15-6 in 1887. No allowance is made in the account for value of the labour of the boys employed, or for wear and tear of block: it merely shows the balance of actual receipts over actual expenditure. Book-binding, carpentry and tinsmiths' work showed net profits of Rs. 3,270-6-6, Rs 1,132-13-2, and Rs. 1,479-13-3, respectively. The profits on cane-work increased from Rs. 313-5-10 in 1887 to Rs. 335-12-5. Printing was introduced in the middle of December 1888, and the Inspector-General of Jails will be asked to notice the result of the experiment in his report for 1889.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the Superintendent, Mr. Kirschner, continues to deserve the praise of the Board of Management and of the Inspector-General of Jails. The acknowledgments of Sir Steuart Bayley are also due to the Board of Management.

7. The number of boys confined in the Hazaribagh School decreased from 232 at the close of 1887 to 223 at the close of 1888. The daily average population was 229·5 against 225 in 1887. The health of the school was not so good as in the two previous years. Admissions to hospital were 133 against 91 in 1887, and the daily average sick 6·67 against 2·93. There were five deaths against one in the previous year.

8. There was a marked improvement in discipline during the year: 123 boys were neither punished nor reported. There were only 367 punishments against 570 in 1887. There was a decrease in the number of punishments under all the heads.

9. The daily routine is the same as at Alipore, except that the hours of the night school differ slightly; the night school at Hazaribagh being held from 6 to 7-30 P.M. It is very satisfactory that out of 229·5, the daily average number, 222 boys on an average attended the night school. The mark system worked well. The average earning per week was Rs. 9-15-2 against Rs. 9-15-1 in 1887. The total earnings came to Rs. 570-6 against Rs. 517-2-9 in the previous year.

10. Reports were received regarding 70 boys; 59 reports were favourable; in 7 cases the whereabouts of the boys were not known; 3 had been re-convicted and sent to jail, and 1 boy was looked upon with suspicion by the police. 14 boys continued to work at the trade they learned in school.

11. The expenditure rose from Rs. 77-9-5 per head in 1887 to Rs. 89-13-10 in 1888. The increase was mainly due to the outlay on new buildings and to the increased price of provisions.

12. The manufacturing account shows a profit of Rs. 3,757-2-11 against Rs. 1,698-12-2 in 1887. The trades taught are carpentry, in which there is a profit of Rs. 2,274 against Rs. 1,445 the previous year, iron-work, shoe-making and tinwork.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the official visitors take much interest in the school, and that the work of both Dr. Moorhead, the Superintendent, and of Mr. Hill, the Deputy Superintendent, has been favourably noticed.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the President of the Board of Management of the Reformatory School at Alipore for information and communication to the Members of the Board.

Ordered also that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Jails for information and communication to the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh Reformatory School.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION ON THE EMBANKMENT REPORTS FOR THE YEAR 1887-88.

No. 845*I.*

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Irrigation.

Dated Calcutta, the 7th June 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The embankment reports for 1887-88.

The budget grant for the maintenance of embankments in Bengal for the year 1887-88 was—

			Rs.
Government embankments	...	...	5,39,728
Tuccavee embankments under contract	...	...	2,75,272
	Total	...	8,15,000

The expenditure during the year was as follows :—

	Rs.
Government embankments	5,95,519
Tuccavee embankments under contract	1,21,840
Total ...	7,17,359

2. Since the commencement of the year 1887-88, the Government embankments hitherto classed as Imperial have, under the orders of the Government of India, been provincialized.

3. The accompanying statement shows the lengths of embankments in each civil division and district in Bengal other than Orissa. The D Schedule embankments are maintained at Government expense, and those classed as tuccavee are maintained at the cost of zemindars, either under contract for a fixed term of years, or under annual estimates for repairs. The expenditure on the latter is shown in the remarks column.

4. The total length of D Schedule embankments and the cost of maintaining the same, exclusive of charges for establishment and tools and plant during the year under review as compared with those of the previous year are shown below :—

Years.	Length.		Cost.
	Miles.	Feet.	Rs.
1887-88	1,127	387	2,54,129
1886-87	1,184	332	2,90,658

Thus in the length of D Schedule embankments there is altogether a decrease of 56 miles 5,225 feet, occurring chiefly in the Midnapore district, where about 53 miles of embankment in the charge of the Executive Engineer of the Balasore Division have been abandoned.

The decrease in the cost of maintenance is partly due to this decrease in length, but the average cost of maintenance per mile has also fallen from Rs. 245·47 in 1886-87 to Rs. 225·47 in 1887-88.

5. The embankments in the districts of Hooghly, Burdwan, and Midnapore suffered severely from the floods which took place in August 1887. In Midnapore the encroachments of the sea on the Hidgellee sea dyke necessitated the construction of a retired line one mile in length to that work. In the Moorshedabad district also, though the floods were not of unusual height, and no breaches took place, several retired lines were found necessary. In the Rajshahye district, where there are only 6 miles of embankment, the mileage rate of maintenance is as high as Rs 969. This high rate is due to the necessity of securing one of the embankments which protect the town of Rampore Beauleah by a retired line constructed in rear of the point threatened.

6. The embankments of the Burdwan estate, which are included in the list of embankments under Schedule D, were maintained at a cost of Rs. 91,156 against Rs. 1,31,164 in the year previous, a decrease of Rs. 40,008.

7. The length of tuccavee embankments under contract was the same as last year, viz., 478 miles 4,806 feet, but there was an increase in the cost of maintenance of Rs. 10,727 chiefly due to the remodelling of a portion of the Sarun main embankment and to the construction of some protective works and retired lines in the embankments of the Chumparun and Midnapore districts which were damaged by floods.

The average mileage rate is Rs. 178·46 against Rs. 156·06, or Rs. 22·40 more than that of the previous year.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, DURING THE MONTH OF MAY 1889.

The normal meteorological conditions in Bengal during May are to a considerable extent similar to those of April. There is the steady and increasing difference of temperature between the land and the sea area, and in this month this difference attains almost its maximum. The area of maximum temperature during May includes the western districts of South Behar, the North-West Provinces, Rajputana, and Central India. With the increasing temperature of the land surface, the southerly winds blowing from the Bay of Bengal strengthen considerably, and owing to the physical obstacles of the hill systems to the east and north of Bengal, they appear as south-easterly winds in East Bengal, and as easterly winds in North Bengal. At the same time, however, the usual hot, dry westerly winds are blowing over considerable portions of Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and thus during May, as explained in previous monthly reports, conditions are favourable to the production of the local storms called nor'-westers. These, it is probable, are produced by the action of the opposing winds in elevating the moist sea breezes, and by this ascensional motion their water vapour is condensed, and sufficient energy is at the same time liberated to produce the well-known effects of these storms.

The southerly breezes which blow during this month at the head of the Bay are of considerable strength, and in fact at Saugor Island and False Point the wind velocities measured in May are generally greater than those during the actual rainy season, but there is reason to believe that during May the current is of small depth compared to what it is during the actual monsoon period. These winds, however, carry considerable amounts of moisture into East and North Bengal, and in the neighbourhood of the hills ascensional movement takes place, followed frequently by local storms and by heavy rainfall. This action will account for the large rainfall which occurs during this month in the northern and eastern districts of the province.

During May the distribution of the normal rainfall is simple, and the lines of equal rainfall run nearly north and south through the province, or rather almost parallel to a line joining the Chittagong Hill Tracts, the Tipperah Hills, the Garo Hills, and the Darjeeling Hills, the largest amounts being received in the eastern and northern districts, and the smallest amounts in the western districts. Thus the average rainfall of the month is less than 2 inches in the southern parts of the Sarun and Mozufferpore districts, the Gya and Shahabad districts, and the western parts of Chutia Nagpur. To the east of these districts, up to a line running nearly north from the mouth of the Hooghly, the rainfall increases from 2 up to 5 inches. To the east of this, up to a line passing through Rungpore, Jamalpore, Mymensing, Bramunberiah, Comilla, and Cox's Bazar, the average rainfall increases eastwards from 5 to 10 inches. To the east of that line it exceeds 10 inches, and increases rapidly in amount towards the Garo and Khasia Hills and towards the Dooars, and at Buxa, in the Western Dooars, the average rainfall in May is not less than 20·77 inches.

The meteorology of May is generally rather important, for about the second or third week the south-west monsoon makes its appearance in the south of the Bay, and gives heavy rain and fairly strong winds at the South Ceylon stations. The monsoon current gradually creeps up the east of the Bay, and rain sets in along the Arakan coast towards the close of the month, and it afterwards spreads into East and North Bengal early in June.

In the front of the advancing monsoon current frequently cyclonic storms arise, which are sometimes small and feeble, and at other times larger and of considerable intensity. When these cyclonic storms are formed quite in the south of the Bay, they usually advance towards the Madras coast; but when the storms originate rather later, that is, when the monsoon current has advanced well into the centre of the Bay, the storms which then form appear usually to advance either towards the Arakan coast, or towards the South Bengal coast.

Meteorology of the month.—The principal features of interest in the meteorology of the past month have been—

1. The mean barometric pressure for the month has been in slight defect of the normal along a line running almost north and south through the centre of the province starting from Jessore, while on either side of this band the mean pressure has been in excess of the normal, the excess being largest at such stations as Saugor Island and Cuttack on the one side and Chittagong on the other, where the variations equal about 0·03 inch. The mean pressure over the whole province has therefore been not very far removed from the normal, and an excess pressure of only 0·01 inch is recorded. In Assam the mean pressure has been only seven thousandths of an inch in excess of the normal.

2. The temperature during certain parts of the month has been very largely in excess of the normal, and for the whole month the average temperature of the province has been no less than 3·2° in excess of the normal. The excess has been smallest in Orissa and

East Bengal, where it only equals about 2°, while in North Behar and Chutia Nagpur it exceeds 4°. In Assam, on the other hand, temperature has on the average been below the normal, and a general defect of 0·5° is recorded.

3. Rainfall has been very largely in defect of the normal in all the meteorological districts of Bengal and Behar, and indeed the general rainfall of the whole province does not average more than about 55 per cent. of the normal, and the largest rainfall in any division has been about six inches in East Bengal. On the other hand, particularly heavy rain has fallen in Assam, where Silchar has received nearly 29 inches in the month and Sibsagar nearly 24 inches.

4. The periods of disturbed conditions due to the formation of nor'-westers were few. In East Bengal some local storms with rain occurred in the first few days of the month, but the disturbance did not extend to other districts. A more general period of disturbance occurred in the middle of the month, and rain fell on one or more days between the 14th and 17th at almost all stations in the province except in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. A further and more extensive series of disturbances commenced about the 20th, and from this date up to the 26th rain showers were numerous in all districts over the whole province. In the hills to the north of Bengal, conditions appear to have been disturbed for the greater part of the month, and at some stations rain has fallen almost daily.

5. In the south of the Bay no strong advance of monsoon winds was noticed until about the 19th of the month, when from that date up to the 23rd rather strong winds prevailed at Galle. The advance certainly progressed as far as the centre of the Bay, and on the 22nd a cyclonic whirl commenced to form near the Andamans, and the ships navigating that part of the Bay reported on this day rather squally unsettled weather. The small whirl, however, had no time to develop into a storm, as it passed inland over the Gulf of Martaban during the same night, giving only very moderate winds, but it appears to have initiated the rainy season in the south of Burma. From the 23rd to nearly the end of the month the monsoon winds blowing in the south of the Bay were only of moderate force except on the 26th and 31st, but on the latter date a second and very much stronger advance of monsoon winds made itself felt at the Ceylon stations.

At the commencement of May, ordinary hot weather conditions generally obtained in the province of Bengal, though temperature was exceptionally high. Owing perhaps also to this exceptionally high temperature which would indicate that the differences between the temperature over the sea and land must have been decidedly larger than usual, exceptionally strong southerly winds were blowing from the sea over the head of the Bay. Winds, though thus much stronger than usual, were of almost normal directions. Rainfall at this time was entirely absent except at a few stations in East and North Bengal. These conditions remained practically unaltered for the first ten or twelve days of the month, but from the 10th to the 12th a feeble barometric depression gradually formed over the west of the province, which was attended by a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds. This feeble depression apparently was connected with a shallow general low-pressure area which was formed over Bengal about the 14th, after which a series of local storms occurred in all districts except Behar and Chutia Nagpur, the disturbed conditions lasting from one to about three days in different districts. Normal hot weather conditions then set in for a few days, but on the 21st a series of very irregular barometric changes occurred, which was again followed by disturbed weather, and for several days local storms with rain were numerous in all districts of the province. In this instance, however, these storms do not appear to have followed the formation of any area of barometric depression, for they simply followed and were attended by a series of rather large and decidedly irregular changes of the barometer. Thus for the greater part of the month fairly normal hot weather conditions prevailed over the province. In the Bay also the meteorological conditions have been fairly normal, but the two strong advances of monsoon winds, which, as stated above, took place from the 19th to the 23rd, and again quite at the close of the month, have not progressed so far up the Bay to in any way influence the weather in Bengal in May. So far, then, as can be judged, conditions are fairly normal for the period, and it would appear probable that the monsoon rains will commence in Bengal at about the ordinary date.

Pressure—At the commencement of the month was generally decidedly below the normal, the defects being smallest in the western and southern districts and largest in the north of the province, where an average defect of about a tenth of an inch was indeed recorded at many stations. During the second week pressure became above the normal, but the relative defect in the north of the province still remained a prominent feature. In the third week pressure became more normal, and while the southern stations showed an excess of 0·04 inch, at the northern stations there was a defect of 0·01 inch. For the fourth week in the month also the average pressure in the province was not very far removed from the normal; so that, taking all the readings for the month into consideration, the mean pressure at most stations has been very nearly normal, and the maximum variation from the normal is an excess of about 0·03 inch at Cuttack and Saugor Island; while on the other hand a defect of 0·014 inch is recorded at Berhampore, and one of 0·019 at Beauleah. Pressure has therefore been in defect in the centre of the province and in excess in the western and eastern districts. For the whole province the mean pressure has been about 0·01 inch in excess of the normal. In Assam, Silchar records an excess pressure of 0·022 inch, and Sibsagar one of 0·009 inch, while at Dhubri pressure has been in defect by 0·008 inch, thus showing that there has been a mean excess pressure of 0·007 inch in Assam.

Temperature.—The main feature of interest in the temperature of May has been the extraordinarily high mean temperature recorded at many stations during the first half of the month, when temperatures of from 10° to 15° in excess of the normal mean were registered at many stations. This large excess was perhaps more noticeable in the night or minimum rather than in the day or maximum temperatures For the whole province an excess of no less than 3·4° over the normal mean temperature has been recorded. while in Chutia Nagpur the excess is no less than 4·4°. The highest recorded maximum temperatures during the month have been 115·5° at Raneegunge, 115·1° at Bankoorah, 114·6° at Gya, and 114·5° at Dehree. In Assam the mean temperature has been 0·5° below the normal for the month.

Rainfall.—As has been previously stated, rainfall has been decidedly scanty throughout the province for the month. East Bengal has received the largest amount, and averages a fall of 6·19 inches, or about three inches less than the normal. North Bengal, South-West Bengal and Orissa have each received an average amount of about three inches, while Behar and Chutia Nagpur have only received falls varying from an inch to an inch and a half. Comparing the actual average rainfalls in each district with the normal falls for May, and expressing them as a percentage of these, the following numbers are obtained :—Orissa 76 per cent., East Bengal 67 per cent., South Behar 58 per cent., South-West Bengal 55 per cent., Chutia Nagpur 46 per cent., North Behar 43 per cent., and North Bengal 40 per cent Taking these districts as having an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall over the whole of Bengal during May was equal to 55 per cent. only of the normal fall.

Taking up the rainfall rather more in detail, it must be first stated that the amounts recorded in neighbouring districts vary very largely Thus while the Dinagepur district has received an average of 0·73 inch, or about a tenth of its usual fall, in the Pubna district, only a short distance to the south-east, an average fall of 5·94 inches is recorded, which is about five-sixths the usual fall for May. The same fact also is even more strikingly noticeable when the falls at neighbouring stations are compared. With these large variations it is impossible to give any general short description of the distribution of the rainfall except to say that the falls have been heaviest in the Darjiling Hills districts and in the eastern districts of East Bengal, where in some cases falls of from 10 to 15 inches are recorded, and the falls have been smallest in the extreme western districts of the province, where an average fall of only about a third of an inch is recorded. At some stations, such as Pupri in the Mozufferpore district, Mohania in the Shahabad district, and Ramghur in the Hazaribagh district, no rain at all appears to have fallen.

The variations of the actual falls from the normals also show very large differences, and while the province on the whole has received only about half the normal fall for the month, there are yet some areas where excess falls have been registered. The principal areas where a rainfall above the normal has thus been registered are—first, one in East Bengal represented by such stations as Naraingunge, Atia, and Goalundo and Serajgunge in North Bengal; a second area a little to the west of the centre of the province, and represented by such stations as Berhampore, Kandi, Lalbagh, Soory, Hetampur, Rampore Haut, Raneegunge, Bankoorah, Nya Doomka and Godda; a third small area in Behar represented by the stations Patna, Barrh, Begooserai; and another in Orissa represented by the stations Cuttack, Jajpore, Bhuddruck and Sorah. The remainder of the province is in defect, and the defect over a considerable area of the eastern half of the province exceeds five inches of rainfall. This is the case over a considerable part of the Furreedpur and part of the Tipperah district, and over considerable parts of the Bogra, Dinagepur and Rungpore districts. Indeed the districts in which the defective rainfall in the month has been most pronounced have been Dinagepur, Khoolna, Maldah and Gya, where the rainfalls are less than 20 per cent. of the normal amounts, and in Bogra, Rajshahye, Rungpore, North Bhagulpore, Shahabad, Chumparun, Mozufferpore, Hooghly, Nuddea and Jessore, where the falls are less than 40 per cent. of the normal.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and the normal rainfall of the month of May in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage. The fourth column gives the same information as the third column in a slightly different form. It states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied in excess or defect from the normal rainfall, and is hence the difference between the numbers in the third column and 100:—

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 21 stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy days is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

'or the week ending Friday, the 7th of June 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 11*th June* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, DURING THE WEEK ENDING 7TH JUNE 1889.

THE chief features of the meteorology of the week have been the rather large differences of pressure over the province; the high temperature and humidity, the latter in all districts, the former in all except North Bengal and Assam, where it was generally in defect; and the copious rainfall in Assam, East Bengal and parts of North Bengal. The weather during the latter half of the week has been of the character of that which usually precedes the commencement of the rains. Pressure has generally been high. At the beginning of the week there was defect in Behar, but elsewhere excess, large at some stations of South-West Bengal and Orissa. In consequence of the increased difference of pressure the wind force increased, and very strong winds were blowing at the head of the Bay. Weather continued fine in all districts except Assam and North Bengal for the first two days of the week, after which conditions became somewhat unsettled, especially on Tuesday, when local storms became common in South and East Bengal. Temperature during these days was high everywhere except in Assam, where there was a defect of from 3° to 5,° and in North Bengal, where it differred very little from the normal The very large excess which existed in Behar remained unchanged for a day or two, but afterwards began to diminish, and from about 10° at the beginning of the week was reduced to 6° on Tuesday. From Monday till Wednesday winds showed a slight cyclonic circulation in the western districts, but as the difference of pressure between the southern districts and Behar had by that time begun to lessen, the winds fell off and continued diminishing till the end of the week. During the last two days pressure continued high, but was fairly uniform. Large differences existed in temperature, which varied from 5° below the normal in the eastern districts to 5° above in part of Behar. Humidity continued high except at some of the western stations, and cloud proportion was generally rather high; rain was fairly general in Bengal and Assam, especially in East Bengal. Heavy rain fell in Assam during the greater part of the week, falling off towards the end, when temperature began to rise, and by the end of the week it had become very nearly normal.

Pressure—Has been high in all districts during the greater part of the week. On Monday after a rather heavy fall there was defect everywhere, and for the first four days of the week pressure was below the normal in Behar. With these exceptions there has been excess. Considerable difference appeared between the pressures in the southern districts and Behar, but this diminished gradually, and by the middle of the week greater uniformity existed. The changes during the week have not been large, and except on Monday and Friday, pressure rose by small amounts. With the exception of the fall on Monday, no large general change took place. The average fall on Tuesday amounted to about ·07," on other days the average variation did not amount to a twentieth of an inch. Pressure in Assam has been in excess all through the week, exceeding a tenth of an inch on Thursday. Average pressure shows excess everywhere except at a few stations in Behar, and is largest at the Assam and East Bengal stations, the average in Assam being about ·06", and in East Bengal about ·05". Elsewhere the excess lies between ·02" and ·05". In South Behar average pressure is very nearly normal.

Temperature.—At all stations, except those in Assam and a few in North Bengal, temperature has been in excess; at some stations of Behar the excess amounted to more than 8,° and at some in South-West Bengal also has been large, in one case exceeding 6°. Temperature was very high in the early part of the week, and though it continued very high at some stations in Behar and South-West Bengal, it was falling by small amounts, especially in North and East Bengal. By the middle of the week there was a rather large defect in North Bengal, and the excess at other stations had considerably diminished. The fall became more rapid towards the end of the week in East Bengal, and on Thursday there was a defect of about 5° at the eastern stations, and excess of about the same amount at the others. Many stations continued to record maximum temperatures of over 100° throughout the week, and in the early part of the week several were over 110.° The highest was at 115·5° at Dehree on Saturday and Sunday. In Assam temperature was generally very low, but it was increasing towards the end of the week. Except in Assam and North Bengal, the mean temperature for the week has been in excess in all districts. The largest excess has been 8° in Chutia Nagpur; in South-West Bengal and South Behar it has been a little over 4°; in North Behar 3·6°; in the other districts about 2.° In North Bengal the mean temperature is normal, and there has been a defect of over 3° in Assam.

Rainfall.—The largest rainfall has been in Assam, East and North Bengal. In other districts the amount has been considerably below the normal, especially South-West Bengal, where about half the normal amount has fallen. Heavy rain fell in Assam during the greater part of the week, diminishing towards the end. At first is was confined to Assam, but a few showers fell in North and East Bengal on Sunday, and on Monday heavy rain commenced to fall in North Bengal. On Tuesday and Wednesday moderate rain continued in the eastern districts, and a series of local storms passed over South Bengal. Heavy rain was confined to East Bengal on Thursday, and on the last day of the week rain continued in the eastern districts, but was heavy at only one or two stations. In North and East Bengal about 4 inches have fallen. In all other districts except South-West Bengal, where a little over an inch has fallen, there has been less than half an inch. The largest defect was in South-West Bengal and Orissa.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 7th of June 1889:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during month ended 27th April 1889.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was a decrease in the upward and an increase in the downward traffic; the former was due to a limited demand from foreign railways and up-country mills, and the latter to increased despatches for shipment and to the Eastern Bengal State and Port Trust railways.

Cotton.—Chiefly due to despatches from Etawah, Agra, Aligarh, and Khurjah to Howrah, owing to a better demand in the Calcutta market.

Gunny.—Principally in despatches from Howrah, Serampore, Bhadreswar and viâ Naihati to Panjab, Oudh and the North-Western Provinces for the new season's crops.

Wheat.—Chiefly in despatches from the Oudh and Rohilkhund Railway viâ Moghalsarai and from viâ Ghaziabad, Delhi, Khurja, Aligarh, and other distant stations to Howrah for export.

Gram and pulses—

Other rain and spring crops.—The increase under these heads was due to large quantities being sent from Delhi and Cawnpore to Howrah and Bombay for local consumption.

Government stores.—Chiefly in ordnance stores from Howrah to viâ Ghaziabad for Rawalpindi, Meerut and Quetta.

Brass and copper.—Due to decline in the price of these metals in the Calcutta market; larger quantities were sent to Mirzapur and other trade centres in the North-Western Provinces.

Railway material, Foreign.—Due to larger despatches of permanent-way material from Howrah to Asansole and Umaria for the Bengal Nagpore Railway, and of railway material for the Indian Midland Railway from Manikpore to Jhansi.

Stone.—This is a continuation of the increase reported in previous months.

Sugar refined and unrefined.—Chiefly in Jaggree from Arrah to Howrah and Bombay, and in Sugar from Buxar and Behea to Agra and stations on the Great Indian Peninsula and Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railways. From Delhi and adjacent stations where the crop was good and prices low, supplies were sent to Agra, Etawah, Firozabad and other stations.

Tobacco.—There was a decrease in weight attended with an increase in earnings, and this was due to lesser quantities being sent longer distances than last year.

DECREASES.

Piece-goods, European.—This was chiefly in the despatches from Howrah, and Bombay viâ Jubbulpore.

Other fibres, raw.—Chiefly in hemp from Allahabad, for which there was a considerable demand last year in Calcutta and Bombay.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—There was an increase in weight carried but a decrease in earnings, and this was due to larger despatches to Calcutta from short distance stations.

Iron.—Due to the Calcutta market being dull throughout the month.

Opium.—Chiefly in the despatches from Patna, the traffic being controlled by Government.

Salt.—There was an increase in weight but a decrease in earnings.

Saltpetre.—Principally in receipts viâ Mokameh Ghât.

Seeds.—Chiefly in linseed, and was due to inferior crops, a limited demand in Europe, and sea freights being unusually high early in the month.

Spices.—In chillies from Mokameh and Mokameh Ghât.

INCREASES.

	Tons.
Coal	464
For railway and flotilla purposes.
Oilseeds	607
Increased despatches from Benapol, Gobardanga, Chandpara, Bongong, Singhia and Khoolna, and an improving demand in Calcutta.
Salt	122
This includes a very small proportion of hide salt.
Sugar	634
More than half this increase was contributed by Jhikargachi.

DECREASES.

	Tons.
Rice	353
The decrease is exclusively from Khoolna, due chiefly to bad crops in the district and to direct carriage to Calcutta by river.
Betelnuts	514
The railway has lost the traffic in betelnuts, which now find their way into Calcutta by the Bengal Central Flotilla's direct steamers.

Intended alteration of Savage Island Light—Port of Akyab.

THE Port Officer, Rangoon, through Commander Alfred Carpenter, R.N., in charge Marine Survey of India, has given notice that it is intended to alter both the height and character of the Savage Island light at the entrance of the Port of Akyab, on the coast of Arracan, by raising the present tower 20 feet, and substituting a 1st class light for the present 3rd class one.

The alterations will be taken in hand at the commencement of the next cold season.

During the alterations the present light will be exhibited from a temporary wooden structure close to and to the southward of the present Light-house, and of the same height, that is, 98 feet above H. W. level.

The transferring of the present light from the present structure to the temporary wooden one will take some days, and during this time a blue light will be burnt from the foot of the present structure every quarter of an hour from sunset to sunrise.

As the present light, when removed to the temporary structure, will be obscured to the northward by the permanent Light-house, a white light will be hoisted on the flagstaff at Fakir Point, as a guide to vessels entering and leaving the port at night. The new light will be a first class dioptric one, fixed and flashing at intervals of one minute, exhibited from a masonry tower at a height of 118 feet above H. W. level, and visible on a clear night at a distance of 16 to 18 miles. Its arc of visibility will be the same as the present light, viz., 264° from seaward.

OFFICIAL PROGRAMME.

It is intended to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Foundation of the Colony of New Zealand, by holding in the City of Dunedin an Exhibition of arts, industries, resources, and manners of New Zealand, Australia, and the other Countries and Colonies in the Southern Pacific.

The principal objects of this Exhibition are to practically illustrate the development of the resources of New Zealand during the first half century of her existence, in comparison with the progress made by other Colonies, British and Foreign; to stimulate industry and promote Intercolonial commerce; to strengthen the natural ties which connect all the Countries in the South Pacific Ocean, and to call attention to their position and potentialities.

The recent improvement in the commercial condition of New Zealand, and the prospect of prosperity immediately before her, offers special opportunities for the development of industry and the extension of Intercolonial commerce; whilst many considerations point to the desirability of bringing the importance of the South Sea Islands into notice, and cultivating a closer acquaintance with their peoples.

The Exhibition is held by, and at the risk of, a number of New Zealand colonists, who have subscribed a Guarantee Fund for the purpose, after the model of those upon which the Great Exhibition of 1851, the London International Exhibition of 1862, and the Adelaide Jubilee Exhibition of 1887 were carried out.

The Government of New Zealand have recognised this Exhibition as the Official Celebration of the Jubilee of the Colony, and issued invitations to the Governments of Australia and the other Colonies and Islands in the Southern Pacific to be officially represented thereat. They have further undertaken to assist the Exhibition by erecting the main building, which will contain the picture galleries, and themselves exhibiting collections illustrating the fauna, flora, geology, and mineralogy of New Zealand, as well as objects of historical interest. The Government will also, with the assistance of the native chiefs, organise a representation of Maori life and customs.

The Commissioners invite exhibits of all kinds from all Colonies, British and Foreign, wheresoever situated, as well as from Islands under British rule in the South Pacific. They are also desirous of obtaining Works of Art, Educational, Scientific, and Machinery Exhibits from other countries; but ordinary Industrial Exhibits from Europe and America can only be admitted under special conditions. Inducements will be offered for the exhibition of processes of manufacture.

With the consent and support of the other chief cities of New Zealand, the Exhibition will be held in Dunedin, which is the centre of the railway system of the southern and most populous island of the Colony A suitable site has been obtained in the heart of the town, close to the railway station and intercolonial wharves. A line of railway will deliver exhibits into the grounds.

The Exhibition will be open to the public on Tuesday, 26th November, 1889, and close about the middle of April, 1890. It will be open in the evening as well as the day time.

The Government will issue customs regulations for the free admission of Intercolonial and Foreign Exhibits, similar to those in force at Melbourne and other Intercolonial Exhibitions, and similar railway privileges will be allowed for exhibits. The reproduction of exhibits will be prohibited by law.

CONDITIONS AND REGULATIONS.

1. Governments intending to take part in this Exhibition are requested to intimate the same as soon as possible. Applications for space for exhibits from Colonies officially represented must be made through the Commissioners of the Colonies to which the applicant belongs. Applications from countries and colonies not officially represented should be addressed directly to the Secretary at Dunedin.
2. Applications for space, with full particulars, are invited as early as possible, and in the allotment of space precedence will be given, as far as possible, to priority of application. No application will be received later than the 1st of July, 1889. Forms of application and all information can be obtained from the Secretary.
3. The ordinary charge for space will be £1 1s. for the first ten square feet or any less space, and a shilling for every additional square foot. Sculpture and paintings approved by the Fine Arts Committee will be admitted free, as well as educational and scientific exhibits shown by Government departments, and exhibits in Classes 34 and 35. Machinery and bulky exhibits will be shown in special annexes, in which space will be charged for at the reduced rate of £1 1s. for the first 20 feet, and sixpence for every additional foot. Wall space will be charged at the same rate as machinery. All applications must be accompanied by payment of the full amount of the space required. Special arrangements can be made for the exhibition of articles in the grounds.
4. The Exhibition will be ready for the reception of exhibits on October 1, 1889, and space not occupied by November 1, 1889, will revert to the Commissioners for re-assignment. The Executive Commissioner shall at any time have power to reserve or reduce space which, in his opinion, is not fully occupied or misused.
5. The Executive Commissioner may issue at his discretion weekly licenses for the sale of articles manufactured in the Exhibition, but no other exhibit will be allowed to be taken out of the buildings until the close of the Exhibition; and any exhibitor selling goods for immediate delivery renders himself liable to the forfeiture of his space and all rights as an exhibitor.
6. The Exhibition building will be constituted a bonded store, but exhibits sold will be subject to duty.
7. The introduction of dangerous substances is strictly prohibited.
8. Packages intended for the Exhibition must be painted or labelled with the following device as a distinctive mark:—N. Z. E., together with the name of the exhibitor and country or colony in which court the exhibit will be shown
9. Customs entries, transportation, receiving, and arranging articles for exhibition must be undertaken by the exhibitor at his own expense, but no charge will be made for the carriage of goods intended for exhibition on the railway lines. New Zealand and Island exhibits will be carried free on the Union S.S. Company's boats, and Australian exhibits the double journey at single freight.

10. The protection of invention capable of being patented and of designs is secured by the patent law of New Zealand. No exhibit may be drawn, copied or reproduced in any manner whatsoever without the joint consent of the exhibitor and the Executive Commissioner. The Commissioners, however, reserve to themselves the right of authorising the production of general views.
11. If exhibits are not intended for competition, notice must be given in the application for space.
12. An official catalogue will be published in English by the Commissioners, by whom the sale of catalogues is reserved. Anything beyond the ordinary description of the exhibit, together with the name of the exhibitor, must be paid for as an advertisement.
13. The representatives of countries and colonies will be allowed to group their exhibits as they may think fit in that portion of the Exhibition buildings allotted to them, subject always to the approval of the Executive Commissioner.
14. Motive power will be supplied to exhibits of processes of manufacture free of charge on application to the Executive Commissioner; but the right is reserved of reducing the amount asked for, or to make a charge for certain portions of the motive power supplied at discretion. The Commissioners desire to encourage the display of machinery in motion, and of all descriptions of manufactures in progress. Requests for motive power must be made to the Secretary prior to 1st July 1889.
15. All shafting, pulleys, belting, machines, &c., for the transmission of power from the main shafting, must be provided by and at the cost of the exhibitor.
16. Judges will be appointed by the Commissioners, acting mainly upon the recommendation of the exhibitors themselves. Certificates of first, second, and third order of merit will be awarded.
17. The removal of exhibits from the Exhibition buildings and grounds must be completed within one month from the close of the Exhibition. Goods remaining after that period will be removed by order of the Executive Commissioner, at the risk of exhibitors and sold by auction or otherwise disposed of at his direction, and the net proceeds handed to the exhibitors or their duly appointed agents.
18. Every person who becomes an exhibitor thereby acknowledges and undertakes to observe the rules and regulations established from time to time for the government of the Exhibition.
19. The Commissioners reserve the right to alter, explain, or add to these regulations at any time, whatever may be deemed necessary.
20. Precaution will be taken to preserve exhibits from injury and to guard the buildings, but no responsibility will be taken for damage or loss from whatever cause. Exhibitors will make their own arrangements for effecting insurances.

Form of applications for space and all further information can be obtained from

D. HARRIS HASTINGS, Secretary.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten yea
The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numb are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy days is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

CALCUTTA, the 14*th June* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS MADE IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS MADE IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 14TH JUNE 1889.

At the close of the previous week the meteorological conditions in the province were those which immediately precede the setting in of the monsoon rains. Heavy rainfall had been received for some time previous in Assam, and the rainfall-bearing current was gradually extending over East and North Bengal, and in both districts at the end of the week fairly general rain was being received. In the Bay the monsoon current had been blowing decidedly strongly for some time, and it was evident it had advanced well into the northern half of the Bay. On Saturday, the 8th of June, the wind velocities at the stations in the centre and south of the Bay commenced to increase, showing that the monsoon current was blowing more strongly, and at the same time wind directions began to shew a tendency to cyclonic circulation off the Orissa coast, where pressure was also falling moderately. On Sunday, the 9th of June, pressure had fallen slowly on the Orissa coast, while it was rising moderately elsewhere, and at the coast stations in the north-west of the Bay a distinct cyclonic circulation of winds obtained. It was clear, therefore, that a small cyclonic storm had formed in front of the advancing monsoon current at some little distance from the land, and the appropriate storm signals were therefore hoisted in the Hooghly and at the stations along the Orissa coast on the morning of the 9th. The storm, however, did not develop to any extent, but as it approached the land it apparently partially broke up or filled up and resolved itself into two or more smaller cyclonic whirls which existed in a general area of low pressure. This low-pressure area gradually drifted over the north-west angle of the Bay, and one of the small whirls passed between False Point and Saugor Island on the 10th; and though a second whirl still existed in the north-west angle of the Bay, and was probably between Saugor Island and False Point on the morning of the 11th, it was evident that the storms were of comparatively little importance, and the storm signals were lowered on the evening of the 10th. The second small whirl appears to have passed inland near Saugor Island on the 11th, and on the morning of the 12th it existed as a barometric depression in Central Bengal. The depression then advanced in a north-north-easterly direction, and on the 13th its centre was between Bogra and Mymensingh, while on the 14th it had advanced to the foot of the hills and had partially broken up and become more diffused; and on this day pressure was low along the whole of North Behar and over part of North Bengal. These small whirls were accompanied by the usual cyclonic circulation of winds, though the wind force as registered at the land stations was in all cases small, and they, as before stated, formed the front of the steadily advancing monsoon current. Owing to the cyclonic circulation in the north-west of the Bay, the monsoon current was first swept round the eastern quadrant of the small storm and advanced over the eastern half of the province, and general heavy rain commenced to fall in North Bengal from about the beginning of the week. In East Bengal heavy rain was received from about the 10th, and in South-West and Central Bengal and Orissa from the 11th; while in Behar and Chutia Nagpur rainfall commenced on the 11th and 12th, though it was not quite so general as in other districts. The monsoon rains may therefore be said to have broken over the whole of the province about the middle to the close of the week under review.

The small storms which formed in front of the advancing monsoon winds were, as they advanced over the land, very feeble, though they, as before stated, caused the commencement of the rains. At sea, however, the storm seems to have been of very much greater force, and bad weather prevailed over the northern half of the Bay for a considerable part of the week The observations supplied to the Meteorological Department by the Commander of the Lalpoora, which vessel was coming from Ceylon to Calcutta, appear to show that this steamer passed through the eastern quadrant of a cyclonic storm on the evening of the 9th off the South Orissa or Ganjam coast, and vessels also coming across the Bay seem to have experienced general bad weather. On approaching the land, however, the storm seems to have broken up to a considerable extent, and to have given rise to feeble whirls only.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been above the normal at all stations in the province except at False Point, where a slight defect is reported, which is probably due to the existence of the depressions above noticed In other cases in Bengal, pressure has generally varied from about 0·02 inch to 0·05 inch in excess of the normal. In Assam pressure is in excess by amounts varying from 0·04 inch to 0·06 inch.

Temperature.—Owing to the heavy rainfall which has generally been received during the week, the mean temperature has now become below the normal in all districts except Orissa. In Behar, North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, the defects are considerable, and vary from 2° to 4°. In East Bengal the defect equals about 1°, while in South-West Bengal it is less than half a degree. In Orissa, on the other hand, temperature has been in excess of the normal by 0·4°. In Assam the mean temperature has been nearly 3° below the normal.

Rainfall—Has been decidedly heavy during the week. East and North Bengal have received average falls of between six and seven inches, or from two to three inches in excess of the normal fall for the period. Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Behar have received average falls of between two and three inches, and these districts show in all cases falls very considerably in excess of the normal. The smallest average fall of a little less than two inches has been received in Chutia Nagpur, but even here the fall has been more than forty per cent. in excess of the normal fall.

In some of the districts in East and North Bengal the falls have been particularly heavy, and thus in Mymensingh an average district fall of no less than 11·24 inches is recorded, in Bogra one of 9·84 inches, and in Rajshahye one of 9·11 inches. On the other hand, in some districts very scanty falls have been received. In Mozufferpore a district fall of only 0·48 inch is recorded, in Chumparun one of 0·56 inch, in Sarun 0·61 inch, and in Patna 0·83 inch, and if the reports of the rainfall recording officers are to be trusted, at some stations even no rain at all has been received during the week. This is perhaps the case at Daudnagar and Shergati in the Gya district, and at Sheikpura in the Monghyr district. In other cases, such as at Kaliagunge, Paru, &c., no reports have yet been received of any rainfall at these stations during the week.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 14th of June 1889 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except [illegible] ratios under which have been omitted [illegible] the census of [illegible]

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 151, dated 9th May 1889), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished.

The Government of Victoria has given notice that on or about 1st April 1889 dredging operations would be commenced in South Channel, Port Phillip, beginning at a point 2½ cables eastward from Pile light-house, and extending from such point 6 cables westward.

During the progress of deepening the channel, and until further notice, three pile buoys will be moored in line to mark the south side of the proposed new cutting, and the dredger will be moored so as to leave both night and day a clear channel 200 feet wide northward of her.

During the night the dredger exhibits three lights forward and three lights aft, placed vertically not less than 6 feet apart, the lowest lights being 20 feet above the sea. The highest and lowest of these lights are fixed white, the middle lights red.

NOTE.—Mariners navigating in South Channel near the dredger should use the passage northward of her and proceed quite slow.

CARIMATA STRAIT.

Existence of Hector Bank.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (Notice to Mariners No. 157 of 1889) that information has been received that Mr. Madge, commanding the British Telegraph steamship Recorder, has reported having in January 1889 passed over the position formerly assigned to Hector Bank (removed from the Admiralty Charts in 1885 in consequence of its having been unsuccessfully searched for by a Netherlands surveying vessel) in the southern entrance to Carimata Strait, and obtained soundings of 7 to 8 fathoms, the extent of the bank being estimated as about 3 miles.

Mr. Madge states that on previous occasions, when commanding the British Telegraph steam-ship Agnes, he had passed over Hector Bank three times, the least depth then found being 5 fathoms.

Consequent on the above, Hector Bank, with a least depth of 3½ fathoms, and 6 to 8 fathoms around (as originally reported), has been replaced on the Admiralty Charts in lat. 3° 45½′ S., long. 110° 8¼′ E.

Bank North-West of Pratas Island.

THE British Admiralty has given Notice (No. 166 of 1889) that information has been received from Captain the Hon'ble F. C. P. Vereker, H. M. Surveying Vessel Rambler, that whilst proceeding to the vicinity of the dangers reported by the Dorothea, Alden Besse, and Cyclone (Hossack shoals), in order to search for them, a bank (Vereker bank) was struck, lying about 45 miles north-westward of Pratas Island :—

This bank of coral and shells, with a least depth found of 39 fathoms, is circular in shape, with a diameter, within the 100-fathoms line, of about 8 miles.

Position of 39 fathoms (situated about two miles westward of the centre of the bank), lat. 21° 5′ N., long. 115° 59′ E.

CAUTION.—As the examination of this bank only extended over two days, and the bank is of large area, it cannot be considered certain that no small dangerous patch exists. Currents are strong and variable in the locality, and it is by no means improbable that the positions given by the Dorothea and Alden Besse, which agree in latitude with that of Vereker bank, may be many miles in error in longitude.

Until thoroughly searched, this bank should therefore be regarded as a danger.

No indication of shoaling was found near the Hassock shoal or Dorothea, but bad weather prevented a complete search being made.

3. (1) The Governor-General in Council may appoint a servant of the Government by the name of his office to be Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the territories subject to any Local Government.

(2) Such Treasurer shall, for the purposes of taking, holding and transferring moveable or immoveable property, be a corporation sole by the name of the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the territories subject to the Local Government, and shall have perpetual succession and a corporate seal, and may sue and be sued in his corporate name.

Orders vesting property in Treasurer.

4. (1) Where any property is held or is to be applied in trust for a charitable purpose, the Local Government, if it thinks fit, may, on application made as hereinafter mentioned, and subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), order, by notification in the official Gazette, that the property be vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments on such terms as may be agreed on between the Local Government and the person or persons making the application, and the property shall thereupon so vest accordingly.

(2) The Local Government shall not make an order under sub-section (1) for the vesting in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments of any securities for money except the following, namely:—

(a) promissory notes, debentures, stock and other securities of the Government of India, or of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland;

Schemes for administration of property vested in the Treasurer.

(2) A scheme settled under this section shall come into operation on a day to be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, and shall remain in force so long as the property to which it relates continues to be vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments or until another such scheme has been substituted in its stead.

(3) Such a scheme shall supersede any instrument or direction relating to the subject-matter thereof and in any way repugnant thereto, and its validity shall not be questioned in any Court.

(4) In the settlement of such a scheme effect shall be given to the wishes of the author of the trust so far as they can be ascertained and, in the opinion of the Local Government, effect can reasonably be given to them.

(5) Where a scheme has been settled under this section for the administration of property not already vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments, it shall not be brought into operation until the property has become so vested.

6. (1) The application referred to in the two last foregoing sections must be made,—

Mode of applying for vesting orders and schemes.

(a) if the property is already held in trust for a charitable purpose, then by the person acting in the administration of the trust or, where there are more persons than one so acting, then by those persons or a majority of them, and

(b) if the property is to be applied in trust for such a purpose, then by the person or persons proposing so to apply it.

(2) For the purposes of this section the executor or administrator of a deceased trustee of property held in trust for a charitable purpose shall be deemed to be a person acting in the administration of the trust.

7. (1) The Governor-General in Council may exercise all or any of the powers conferred on the Local Government by sections 4 and 5.

Exercise by Governor-General in Council of powers of Local Government.

(2) When the Governor-General in Council has signified to the Local Government his intention of exercising any of those powers with respect to any property, that Government shall not, without his previous sanction, exercise them with respect thereto.

8. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments shall not, as such Treasurer, act in the administration of any trust whereof any of the property is for the time being vested in him under this Act.

Bare trusteeship of Treasurer.

(2) Such Treasurer shall keep a separate account of each property for the time being so vested which, or in so far as it, consists of securities for money, and shall dispose of the income of such property in accordance with the provision made in that behalf in the vesting order under section 4 or in the scheme, if any, under section 5 or in both those documents.

(3) In the case of any property so vested other than securities for money, such Treasurer shall, subject to any general or special orders which he may receive from the Local Government, permit the persons acting in the administration of the trust to have the possession, management and control of the property, and the application of the income thereof, as if the property had been vested in them.

[16 & 17 Vict., c. 137, s. 50.]

9. A Treasurer of Charitable Endowments shall cause to be published annually in the local official Gazette, at such time as the Local Government may direct, a list of all properties for the time being vested in him under this Act and an abstract of all accounts kept by him under sub-section (2) of the last foregoing section.

Annual publication of list of properties vested in Treasurer.

10. (1) A Treasurer of Charitable Endowments shall always be a sole trustee, and shall not, as such Treasurer, take or hold any property otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, or, subject to those provisions, transfer any property vested in him except in obedience to a decree divesting him of the property, or in compliance with a direction in that behalf issuing from the authority by whose order the property became vested in him.

Limitation of functions and powers of Treasurer.

(2) Such a direction may require the Treasurer to sell or otherwise dispose of any property vested in him and, with the sanction of the authority issuing the direction, to invest the proceeds of the sale or other disposal of the property in any such security for money as is mentioned in section 4, sub-section (2), clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), or in the purchase of immoveable property.

11. If the office held by a servant of the Government who has been appointed to be a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments is abolished or its name is changed, the Governor-General in Council may appoint the same or another servant of the Government by the name of his office to be such Treasurer, and thereupon the holder of the latter office shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the successor in office of the holder of the former office.

Provision for continuance of office of Treasurer in certain contingencies.

12. If by reason of an alteration of the limits of the territories subject to a Local Government, or for any other reason, it appears to the Governor-General in Council that any property vested in a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments should be vested in another such Treasurer, he may direct that the property shall be so vested, and thereupon it shall vest in that other Treasurer and his successors as fully and effectually for the purposes of this Act as if it had been originally vested in him under this Act.

Transfer of property from one Treasurer to another.

13. The Governor-General in Council may frame forms for any proceedings under this Act for which he considers that forms should be provided, and make such rules consistent with this Act as he may deem expedient for carrying into effect the purposes thereof.

Power to frame forms and make rules.

14. No suit shall be instituted against the Government in respect of anything done or purporting to be done under this Act, or against a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments except for divesting him of property on the ground of its not being subject to a trust for a charitable purpose, or for making him chargeable with or accountable for the loss or misapplication of any property vested in him, or the dividends, interest or income thereof, where the loss or misapplication has been occasioned by or through his wilful neglect or default.

Indemnity to Government and Treasurer.

15. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to impair the operation of section 111 of the Statute 53 George III, Chapter 155, or of any other enactment for the time being in force, respecting the authority of an Advocate-General at a presidency to act with respect to any charity, or of sections 8, 9, 10 and 11 of Act No. XVII of 1864 (an Act to constitute an Office of Official Trustee) respecting the vesting of property in trust for a charitable purpose in an Official Trustee.

Saving with respect to Advocates-General and Official Trustees.

[4 Moore's I. A. 190.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

On many occasions the want has been felt in India of an official capable of discharging the functions which are discharged in England by the Official Trustee of Charity Lands and the Official Trustees of Charitable Funds. The object of this Bill is to meet that want.

2. Much property has from time to time in different parts of India been vested by founders in public servants, such as the Collector, Director of Public Instruction, Accountant-General and Divisional Commissioner. With respect to a case in which an Accountant-General and a Divisional Commissioner had been named as trustees, the Officiating Advocate-General of Bengal and the Officiating Standing Counsel stated in a joint opinion in 1885 that persons cannot, as holders of certain posts, be appointed trustees "unless these posts are corporate ones." "Neither the office of the Accountant-General nor that of the Commissioner," they observed, "is a corporate office; and even if appointed by the designation of their office only, and not by name, the trust-fund would vest in them as individuals, and they would remain trustees until they themselves appointed others to succeed them or until they died."

3. There is a difficulty in India in finding any corporation capable of acting as a trustee in such cases as this Bill is designed to meet. The Secretary of State for India in Council and the Governor-General in Council are incapable of being trustees (L. R. 15 Ch. D. 9). It has also been held that Anglican Bishops and Archdeacons in India, who have been constituted by Letters Patent to be perpetual corporations, with power to take and hold property under grant or license from the Crown, are not capable of acting as trustees in some of the cases for which this Bill is intended to provide. To the question whether the Lord Bishop of Calcutta in his corporate capacity might not, under the Letters Patent for the Bishopric of Calcutta, bearing date the 14th May, 1814, hold land upon trust for a Diocesan School so that, upon his ceasing to be Bishop, it would devolve without a deed upon his successor in the Bishopric, an eminent counsel in England, to whom the question was referred, has replied in the negative. "It is quite true," he remarks, "that the Bishop is a corporation sole, and in that capacity can hold the lands belonging to his See. He may, however, only hold such lands as by grant or license from the Company (now Her Majesty) he is authorized to take, hold and enjoy. I think it is clear that the Letters Patent only refer to lands belonging to, or purchased out of moneys belonging to, the Bishopric. * * * * On the whole, I am of opinion that, if the land in question was conveyed to the Bishop as a trustee, it would pass on his death not to his successor but to his executors."

4. The Bill, it will be observed, is of a purely permissive character. The Government will be unable to make a vesting order or frame a scheme except on application for that purpose, and may, if it sees fit, refuse to act. The corporation sole in whom as Treasurer of Charitable Endowments property may be vested is, except as regards the disposal of any property by direction of the Government, to have nothing to do with the administration of the property. He is to be a bare trustee, the object of vesting the property in him by his name of office as a corporation sole being to secure the holding of the property by some one always present, and to avoid the difficulty and expense of appointing a new trustee on the retirement or death of any incumbent of the trust.

IRRIGATION OPERATIONS IN BENGAL FOR THE KHARIF SEASON 1888-89.

No. 956*I*.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

IRRIGATION.

Dated Calcutta, the 25th June 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Statements Nos. I, II, and III, showing irrigation operations for kharif 1888-89 of canals in Bengal.

OBSERVATIONS.—The area irrigated during the kharif season of 1888-89 was 476,776 acres against 425,503 acres in 1887-88, showing an increase of 12·0 per cent.

2. The increase was in the districts irrigated by the Orissa and Sone Canals, and was due chiefly to the failure of the rainfall towards the end of the season which brought canal water into acute demand. Of the five districts irrigated by the two canal systems named, Gya alone shows a slight decrease in the area returned as irrigated.

On the Midnapore Canal, however, where there was the same failure of the October rains and the same pressing demand for irrigation, a noticeable decrease of 10,334 acres has taken place in the area irrigated, and must be ascribed to the insufficiency of the supply obtained from the Cossye River, which is chiefly dependent on the local rainfall.

Notwithstanding the failure of the October rains, the registers show that the whole rainfall of the kharif season was greater for each district than in the season of 1887-88.

3. In Orissa and Midnapore the only kharif crop irrigated is rice, while on the Sone Canals, though the chief crop is rice, sugarcane and hot-weather crops also are irrigated.

4. In the statement following, a comparison by canals is made of the kharif areas irrigated during the seasons of 1887-88 and 1888-89 :—

The falling off on the Midnapore canal, the irrigation of which is almost entirely confined to the Midnapore district, has been explained above. On the Buxar canal, between which and the Arrah canal the irrigation of the Shahabad district is divided, there was a falling off of 7,620 acres in five-year leases, of which some 5,000 acres were kharif, and a further falling off of over 6,000 acres in annual kharif leases. The failure to obtain the renewal of leases was largely due to the prevailing hope that the recent agitation and the appointment of a Committee of enquiry would be followed by a reduction of rates, and probably took place chiefly in villages under "bhaoli" tenure, which pay rent in kind. In consequence, when the pressure came in October, many of these villages were neither prepared to receive the water, nor could it be given to them in time.

5. Under sugarcane there was an increase of 11 per cent., and under rice one of about 13 per cent., while under hot-weather crops there was a decrease of some 2,100 acres, or about 15 per cent.

Order.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution and of the statements Nos. I, II, and III be submitted to the Government of India, in the Public Works Department, for information; also that copies be forwarded to the Commissioners of the Orissa, Burdwan, and Patna Divisions; the Collectors of Cuttack, Midnapore, Patna, Shahabad, Gya, and Sarun; the Superintending Engineers of the Orissa, South-Western, and Sone Circles; and the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, Bengal, for information.

Calcutta,
The 21st June 1889.

G. A. G. SHAWE,
Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT, 1888-89.

THE following report is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

The 21*st June* 1889. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

THE Bengal Meteorological Department has been under my control during the whole of the year under review, Mr. John Eliot, the permanent Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal, having continued to officiate for Mr. H. F. Blanford as Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India.

The method of work in the Department has been changed rather materially during the year. These changes are entirely due to the general reorganisation of the whole of the Meteorological Department in India, which is being carried out by Mr. Eliot under the orders of the Government of India.

These changes, in so far as they concern the Bengal Meteorological Department, may be classed as follows:—

(i). The retention of 8 A.M. as the hour for the observations daily telegraphed by the coast stations round the Bay of Bengal for the Daily Weather Report of the Storm Signal Service.

(ii). The introduction from 1st January 1889 of the hour of 8 A.M. for the general time of observation at the inland stations in Bengal instead of the former hour of observation at 10 A.M. This change has included all those meteorological stations formerly classed as provincial observatories.

(iii). The retention of 10 and 16 hours' observations in addition to the 8 hours in the case of 15 stations. These observatories are those from which observations have been obtained for a series of years, and which are known to have submitted accurate and trustworthy returns, and which therefore give very reliable average results for comparison with the data of each succeeding year and which will thus enable a strict and scientific discussion to be carried out of each year's meteorology.

(iv). The classification of the observatories according to the various hours of observation, and the redistribution of allowances to the observers according to the number of sets of observations which have to be taken and the instruments observed.

(v). The introduction of arrangements for the collection of special meteorological observations during storms and the full recognition of the value of these observations by special payment for them; the amount to be paid being entirely dependent on the amount and quality of information submitted by the observers.

(vi). The amalgamation of the Bengal Meteorological office with the India Meteorological office.

All the changes marked ii to iv have been effected from 1st January 1889. Up to this date, therefore, the hour of observations at the majority of the imperial stations continued to be 10 and 16 hours, and in the case of the provincial stations 10 A.M. only.

In the case of the coast stations round the Bay of Bengal reporting daily observations for the Daily Report of the Storm Signal Service, 8 A.M. was adopted as an additional hour for observation, as a tentative measure, from 1st April 1888. A special allowance of Rs. 4 was granted to each of the observatories thus recording the extra 8 hours' observations from 1st April to 31st December 1888, when these special allowances ceased.

This experimental change in the hour of observations from 10 A.M. to 8 A.M. was found during the nine months of its trial to answer admirably. The time of 8 A.M. for observations was indeed found to fulfil all the advantages it had been believed to possess, and which were set forth by Mr. Eliot in the proposal for its adoption. It enabled the reports printed daily at Simla by the Government of India to be issued practically a day earlier than when 10 A.M. had been adopted as the hour of observation. It has also enabled the changes going on over the land to be compared more rigorously with those over the sea as represented in the logs of ships. It has also enabled me to publish the Daily Bay of Bengal Weather Report between 10-30 and 11 A.M. instead of between 3 and 4 P.M. as heretofore, and thus it has fully answered my anticipations in the way of the possibility of issuing early warnings of the probability of stormy weather.

In view, therefore, of the manifest advantages of 8 A.M. as the hour of observation over the previous hour of 10 A.M., the Government of India finally settled that this was to be the hour of the observations for all the current work of the Department, such as for Daily Reports, &c.; while at a few of the oldest established and most satisfactory stations observations at 10 and 16 hours were continued for the purposes of strict comparison with the averages obtained in former years, for scientific discussion, and for the purposes of the Annual India Meteorological Report.

The change, as above stated, came into force on 1st January 1889, and from the point of view of the Bengal Meteorological Department, the new arrangement is a most satisfactory one.

Under the new system, therefore, the stations under the direct control of this Department noted below take observations at 8, 10, and 16 hours, and these observatories are in future to be considered second class :—

Dhubri.	Burdwan.	Durbhanga.
Sibsagar.	Chittagong	False Point.
Silchar.	Cuttack.	Hazaribagh.
Akyab.	Dacca.	Patna.
Berhampore.	Darjeeling.	Saugor Island.

The observatories mentioned below take only one set of observations at 8 A.M., and are considered as third-class observatories:—

Arrah.	Dinagepore.	Noakhally.
Balasore.	Furreedpore.	Nya Doomka.
Bankoora.	Gopalpore.*	Pooree.
Bhagulpore.	Gya.	Purneah.
Bogra.	Jessore.	Rampore Beauleah.
Burrisal.	Julpiguri.	Ranchee.
Buxar.	Krishnagar.	Raneegunge.
Chupra.	Maldah.	Rungpore.
Chybassa.	Midnapore.	Serajgunge.
Coconada.*	Motihari.	Tavoy.
Comilla.	Mymensing.	Tezpore.
Dehree.	Nellore.

There are also two voluntary stations, Tura and Demagiri, taking only temperature and wind observations at 10 and 16 hours.

Of the second-class observatories, the following are provided with self-registering wind instruments :—

Dhubri,	Darjeeling,
Chittagong,	Hazaribagh,

Saugor Island ;

while at the following, seismic or earthquake observations are recorded :—

Sibsagar.	Silchar.

* Under Port Officer.

The solar radiation thermometric observations, which were suspended from 1st January 1888, have been revived from 1st January 1889 in the case of the following second-class stations only under new and improved conditions:—

Dhubri.	Darjeeling.
Sibsagar.	Hazaribagh.
Saugor Island.

Separate instructions for the registration of the readings have been issued by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India. Three instruments, one of which has been in use for less than one year, another over two years, and the third over five years, are now being observed at each station. They are placed side by side, and in every way in similar conditions of exposure, and it is hoped that the combined observations of these instruments when compared in sets of three will enable any variations in the amount of solar radiation to be determined with accuracy.

In addition to the stations above shown under the headings of second and third class, which are directly under the control of this office, meteorological observations are received for the purposes of the Daily Weather Report for the Storm Signal Service, &c., of this office from the following observatories:—

Station
Calcutta (Alipore)	Under control of the Meteorological Reporter, India.
Cuddalore	Madras Ports.
Madras
Masulipatam
Negapatam
Vizagapatam
Bassein	Burmah Ports.
Diamond Island
Moulmein
Rangoon
Galle	Ceylon Ports.
Trincomallee

Vizagapatam, which is mentioned in this list, is a voluntary observatory under the direction of Mr. A. V. Nursingrao, who has continued to favour the Department with his observations, which are of a high order of accuracy and which are received with great punctuality. The thanks of the Meteorological Department are therefore again due to Mr. Nursingrao for his continued valuable assistance in connection with the Storm Signal Service.

In addition to the above-mentioned stations from all of which regular meteorological observations, usually consisting of readings of air pressure, of temperature, wind direction and motion, cloud proportion, and rainfall, &c., are submitted, there are in all districts numerous stations which daily record rainfall only, and which send in their reports to this office. There are now no less than 255 of these rainfall-recording stations in the various districts in the Province of Bengal. Two stations were added during the year under review: these were, Sherepore town in Mymensing district and Nagrakatta in Julpiguri.

The number of observatories from which returns were therefore received in the Bengal Meteorological office during the past year has been—

1	First-class meteorological station.
15	Second ,, ,, stations.
35	Third ,, ,, ,,
2	Voluntary meteorological observatories.
11	Additional meteorological stations for the Storm Signal Service.
255	Fourth-class or rainfall-recording stations.

There have thus been 12 more stations reporting in the past than in the previous year.

By orders of the Government of India the scale of monthly payment to the observers has been arranged in such a manner that they will be remunerated according to the total work of observation performed by them—

	Rs.
I.—To observers for taking 8 A.M. observations and despatching weather telegrams	10
II.—To observers for recording 10 and 16 hours' observations, as well as taking 8 hours' observations and sending daily weather telegrams	18
III.—To observers for taking only 10 and 16 hours' observations ...	12

	Rs.
IV.—Additional payment to observers at certain coast stations who send, as a part of their regular duty, storm telegrams for use in connection with the storm-warning work of the Department	5
V.—Additional payment to observers in charge of automatic wind instruments	4
VI.—Additional payment to observers who take special observations of solar radiation thermometers	3

In addition special grants will be made at the end of each year to those observers who have sent in valuable observations of storms which have passed over the observing stations.

The Department from the 1st of January of this year is therefore under an entirely different constitution both as to the nature of the work done and as to the payment received for such work by the observers.

The work of the Department may perhaps best be reviewed under the following heads:—

(a) Work connected with the publishing of Meteorological or Weather Reports, &c., generally and the working of the Storm Signal Service.

(b) Inspection of observatories and nature of work done, and any changes made at these observatories.

(c) Work of office staff.

The regular reports which are issued by this Department are—

1st.—Monthly reports of the meteorology of Bengal and Assam which are also illustrated in a few cases with maps drawn by hand representing the actual rainfall, the variation from the normal, and the rainfall expressed as a percentage of the normal fall.

2nd.—Weekly reports of the meteorology of Bengal and Assam, and particularly of the rainfall of Bengal.

Both the monthly and weekly reports have been published regularly throughout the year in the Calcutta Gazette. The date of publishing of the monthly reports has been in almost every case that of the second Gazette after the close of the month in question, while each Gazette has dealt with the weather statistics of the week up to and including the Friday previous to its issue.

Two other general reports of the meteorology of Bengal are also prepared—the first is the meteorological summary for the whole year prepared in August for incorporation in the Bengal Administration Report. In the present year this was submitted in the month of September, and it was illustrated by maps showing the actual rainfall of the year, and its percentage variation from the normal. The second general report deals with the meteorology of the monsoon season only. This was prepared as usual, and it appeared in the Calcutta Gazette of 16th January 1889. A few copies of maps representing the actual monsoon rainfall, its variation from the normal, and the percentage of the actual rainfall as compared with that of normal years, were also prepared for submission with this report.

The Daily Bengal Report, which is published during the monsoon season, was issued regularly from the 28th of April to the 9th of November, or during a slightly longer period than usual. It dealt with the observations of the same number of stations as usual (i.e., 41), and it was issued to 102 Government officers and to 13 private subscribers.

The Bay of Bengal Daily Weather Report of the Storm Signal Service was issued regularly throughout the year; and, as stated previously, owing to the change in the hour of daily observations from 10 A.M. to 8 A.M., and to the fact that at this earlier hour the telegraph wires are more free from traffic, so that the telegrams can be forwarded much more rapidly, it has been found possible to prepare and issue the report with its accompanying chart very much earlier than formerly. The usual time at which the report is printed and ready for distribution is between 10-30 and 11 A.M., instead of between 3 and 4 P.M. as was the case in former years. This report now contains the observations made at 8 A.M. at 25 stations in India and Burma and at 2 stations (Galle and Trincomallee) in Ceylon. In the latter case the observations are taken at 9-30 A.M., and they consequently cannot be included in the report for the same day, but appear in that of the day following. The report is prepared and issued mainly to give information as to the state of the weather in the Bay of Bengal and over the surrounding coast areas, and to enable the Storm Signal Service to be worked effectively by the Reporter.

In the previous year the Storm Signal Service worked by this Department had been very largely modified, and the responsibilities of the Department largely increased by the duty of warning the Madras and Burmah Coast Ports being entrusted to it in addition to the duty of warning the Bengal Ports, and particularly Calcutta and its approaches. In the present year there has been no further important change in the system of working of the Storm Signal Service of the Bay of Bengal, except that the observatories at Nellore and Cuddalore have been started from 13th September 1888 and 1st March 1889 respectively. These observatories were under construction last year.

The Madras Government Astronomer, who had previously supplied this Department with the meteorological information from that station, having raised difficulties in the matter of sending in additional observations when called for in order to watch the progress of storms which were known to exist in the Bay of Bengal, and the course of which it was necessary to trace, the matter was reported to the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India. A departmental observatory was in consequence opened at Madras under the Port Officer with the sanction of the Government of India, with effect from 7th January 1889. The observations recorded in the Bay of Bengal Daily Weather Report are now those taken at this departmental observatory, and the Government Astronomer in charge of the Madras observatory no longer supplies the daily meteorological telegrams to this office.

It should here be mentioned that the Diamond Island Telegraph Service has improved very materially since the widening of the belt of cleared forest through which the line passes, the sanction for which was reported in the last Administration Report. In the present year there has been almost no break in the regularity of the telegrams from this station, and thus one of the standing difficulties in the way of the successful working of the Signal Service in previous years has been removed.

There is, however, another difficulty in connection with the Telegraph Service which demands attention, and that is in the communication with False Point. At present there is only telephonic communication between False Point Light-house at which the meteorological observatory is situated and Hookeytolah on the mainland, and it frequently happens that on the occasion of bad weather or of a cyclone approaching the Orissa coast, the communication is suspended several hours before the storm approaches the land. This at once makes it difficult to determine the line of march and the position of a storm with any degree of certainty. Even also during such months as April and May, when strong southerly winds blow in the north-west angle of the Bay, it is found sometimes to be impossible to send in the daily meteorological telegrams with certainty and regularity, and thus in the first thirteen days in May 1889 on not a single day did the False Point telegram reach this office in time to be incorporated in the Daily Weather Report, and thus for all practical purposes of rapid or early forecasting these observations were useless.

The Orissa coast has been found from experience to be the focus where a large proportion of the storms of the south-west monsoon period forming in the Bay strike, and it would hence be extremely desirable in the interests of the Storm Signal Service that the telegraphic communication over that area should be as perfect as possible. If therefore False Point could be made a regular telegraph station instead of being connected by telephone only, and if a cable could be run connecting it with Hookeytolah, a distance of probably only about 5 or 6 miles, much greater certainty in the receipt of meteorological information from almost the most important observing station on the west coast of the Bay would be ensured, and much greater facility would be obtained in the matter of issuing timely warning to the Orissa ports and to the shipping that lies at anchor in or near the False Point Harbour. The cost of this extension to the Telegraph Department could not be very large, and it would partly be recouped by the income from the Meteorological Department, which alone will almost pay the salary of a signaller who would have to be posted at the Light-house.

In connection with the publication of this Report, and with the working of the Storm Signal Service generally, it may be mentioned that information as to the existence of storms near the Madras coast was issued on ten occasions in the calendar year 1888. On the Bengal and Orissa coasts, the signals were hoisted on eight occasions during storms, and information as to the existence of storms near the Burmah coast was given on five occasions.

No descriptions of the storms of the year will be given here, as these are fully described in the monthly, weekly, and daily reports above referred to, and their history is also summarized in the general report of the meteorology of the year, which will be published in the Bengal Administration Report.

The Bay of Bengal Daily Weather Report was issued during the year to 33 Government officials and to 23 subscribers.

In addition to the above reports, which are regularly published throughout the year, during the year under review a few special reports have been prepared. Two of these were prepared in order to be incorporated in the new edition of the Statistical Account of Bengal, the compilation of which was commenced during the year. It was proposed to give under each division a short account of the normal meteorological conditions peculiar to it, dealing specially with the conditions of rainfall, &c., and giving full statistical information of the principal meteorological elements. During the year reports of the following divisions have thus been submitted :—of the Burdwan Division on the 19th May 1888, and of the Bhagulpore Division on the 3rd September 1888.

A special report was also prepared on the meteorological features, &c., attending the Tornado at Dacca, which occurred on 7th April 1888. The paper was read before and published by the Asiatic Society of Bengal, and it consisted of two parts—the first or meteorological portion contributed by myself, and the second or the full description of the effects of the Tornado, which was contributed by Dr. Crombie, then Civil Surgeon of Dacca.

Inspection of observatories.

Of the 52 observatories under the direct control of this Department, only 18 could be inspected during the year. Of the 18, one (Jessore) required to be inspected twice, so that nineteen visits of inspection in all were made as against thirty-four in the previous year. Of these, thirteen were made by myself and six by the Head Clerk of the office. One principal reason of the small number of observatories inspected during the year has been the fact that neither the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India nor his Assistant has been able to be in Calcutta during the cold season to relieve the Bengal Reporter of his work, so as to enable him to get away on tours of inspection. This has arisen from the fact that the Assistant Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India has been on privilege leave, and hence the India Reporter has had to remain at Simla during the cold-weather months. In succeeding years this difficulty about inspection will be overcome, as an officer has been appointed as Inspector of Observatories for the whole of India, and thus the Bengal Reporter will be partially relieved of this work.

The following were the observatories inspected :—

By myself—

Gya.	Patna.	Chupra.
Dacca.	Bhagulpore.	Krishnagar.
Durbhanga.	Arrah.	Mymensing.
Jessore.	Buxar.	Raneegunge.
	Motihari.

By my Head Clerk—

Jessore.	Dinagepore.	Rampore Beauleah.
Bogra.	Julpiguri.	Rungpore.

Of these, three belong to the second class, and the remainder to the third class.

Of the observatories inspected, the majority were in good order: the following, however, were exceptions :—

(1) Chupra observatory when inspected was in extremely bad order, and arrangements were made to transfer the observatory to the charge of the Telegraph Department.

(2) Bhagulpore observatory was also in bad order, and arrangements were subsequently made to transfer the post of observer to the Civil Surgeon's clerk.

(3) Rampore Beauleah was also in bad order, and the observatory was transferred to the charge of the Postmaster.

(4) Rungpore observatory was also in bad order, and the charge of the observatory was transferred to the Post and Telegraph Master.

Patna, Jessore, and Mymensing were in fair order only, but no change of observers was necessary.

Of the observatories which were not inspected, most of them submitted their returns regularly and punctually, and the observations were of such a character that they agreed very fairly well with neighbouring stations, so that, so far as can be judged, these observatories generally continue in good order. Only one exception to this fact is known, and that is in the case of Tezpore, where the observations have been utterly untrustworthy. The observer was fined on many occasions, and afterwards his pay suspended altogether for a time, but nothing appeared to have any effect on him, and during the current year the observatory has had to be entirely closed.

It having been found by the Public Works officials in charge of some of the observatories that the new hour of 8 A.M. was inconvenient to the observers, arrangements were made at the close of the official year to transfer the Arrah observatory to the charge of the Telegraph Master and the Motihari observatory to the charge of the Civil Surgeon's clerk.

In the case of Durbhanga and Bankoora also, which were formerly voluntary observatories, under the scheme of the reorganisation of the Department they were converted into regular observatories of the Department, and Durbhanga is now a second-class observatory, where the observer receives Rs. 10 per month, and Bankoora is a third-class observatory, where the observer's pay is Rs. 10.

Beyond the alterations alluded to in the opening portions of this report, no further changes have taken place in the class of work done at the various observatories.

Office staff.

Up till the 1st of January 1889 the constitution of the office and its staff remained practically the same as in former years, but from that date the Bengal Meteorological office has been amalgamated with the India Meteorological office, and the combined office is worked under the supervision of the Head Clerk of the India Meteorological office, Babu Fanindra Mohan Basu. The services of Babu Chandi Charan Chatterjee, the former Head Clerk of the Bengal office, have been well utilised, and he has been appointed as Inspector of Observatories for the whole of India.

Under the efficient supervision of Babu Chandi Charan Chatterjee, and since the 1st of January 1889 under the able management of Babu Fanindra Mohan Basu, the Bengal office establishment, consisting of two clerks, ten tabulators, and one draughtsman, has worked exceedingly well throughout the year, and the work of reduction and tabulation of observations has gone on so smoothly that the numerous reports published by this office have been issued completely and punctually on the dates on which they were due. The work done by the office indeed is extremely hard, and frequently involves late hours and even duty throughout the night, but in all cases the duty has been done willingly and cheerfully.

DISTRESS IN THE TRIBUTARY MEHALS OF ORISSA.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

No. 81T—R, dated Darjeeling, the 14th June 1889.

From—P. NOLAN, Esq., C.S, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Dept.,
To—The Commissioner of the Orissa Division.

WITH reference to your letter No. 809, dated the 5th June 1889, I am directed to convey the Lieutenant-Governor's sanction to a grant of Rs. 10,000 (rupees ten thousand) for expenditure on relief purposes in Angul, to be distributed as follows :—

	Rs.
For relief works	3,000
„ gratuitous relief	2,000
„ tuccavi advances	5,000

This sanction has already been communicated to you by my telegram of yesterday's date.

2. His Honour also approves your action in ordering Rs. 1,000 worth of food-grains to be sent to Angul, and authorizing the tehsildar to commence works out of the 10 per cent. grant, and to administer gratuitous relief under the provisions of the Famine Code.

3. I am to request you to furnish further information as to the prospects in Angul. Government is not fully informed as to the crops ordinarily grown in that killa, their seasons, the proportion of each lost last year, and the date at which the reaping of the next crop may be expected to afford relief.

No. 809, dated Camp Pooree, the 5th June 1889.

From—J. A. HOPKINS, Esq., Officiating Superintendent, Tributary Mehals,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

IN continuation of this office report No. 129—780T of the 27th ultimo, regarding the condition of the people in the Tributary Mehals of Orissa, I have the honour to submit the following for the orders of Government.

2. As stated in paragraph 30 of the report quoted above, the last autumn crop in Angul was poor, and the cold-weather crops were more or less a failure. In January last, when the Assistant Superintendent visited the State he did not observe any sign of immediate distress amongst the people, but he found that the day labourers, who are chiefly employed in agricultural operations on a system of annual contracts, had, before the expiration of the term of the contract, been in a body thrown out of employ on the ground of want of means on the part of their employers to keep them on, and he apprehended that later on it would be necessary to open relief works, to make tuccavi advances, and to remit or defer the collection of a part of the rent of the estate. The Assistant Superintendent's estimate was partly dependent upon the mohul and mango crops which were then in flower, but the latter proved a failure.

3. Matters have hitherto gone on fairly well, notwithstanding the failure of the crops; food-grains have been available, being imported from the neighbouring States, and so long the people have been able to help themselves, but the import of grain is gradually failing, and it is now, I regret to say, there is no doubt that relief operations must be commenced. The tehsildar reports that want of food is felt by the landless classes and the lower classes of cultivators in every village, specially by those living near the head-quarters in the parganas of Purnagur and Taras and a part of Khoma Kalinga, where there was total failure of crop last year.

4. The permission given to the people to collect edible roots, leaves, &c., from the jungles has been of great service to them; but the rains having held off for an unusually long period, the ground has become dry and arid, so that roots have not developed; leaves, fruits, and flowers are scarce; the supply has been almost used up.

5. The tehsildar in charge of the State, who is an officer of local experience, reports that it will be necessary to afford gratuitous relief, and to open relief works, besides constructing the ordinary works from the 10 per cent. grant. He thinks that about 3,000 persons would immediately require relief, of whom less than half the number would be fit for work, while the rest, consisting for the most part of children, would require gratuitous relief.

6. In view of the prospective increase of revenue in the course of the settlement now in progress, the amount available for the improvement of the estate out of the annual 10 per cent. grant was estimated at Rs. 3,880; but in consequence of the failure of the crops more rent will, I fear, have to be remitted, and its collection will be delayed; so that after providing for the annual recurring charges no more than Rs. 1,000 will, it is feared, be available for new works in which persons in need of relief might be employed.

7. The tehsildar asks for a relief grant of Rs. 3,000 for works and Rs. 2,000 for gratuitous relief and Rs. 5,000 for tuccavi advances.

8. It is at present difficult to state to what extent relief measures would have to be carried on. Very much will depend upon the state of the weather. If there are seasonable showers of rain much of the present anxiety will disappear, day-labourers will be employed in agricultural operations, the supply of edible jungle produce will be abundant, and there would not be any great need for State relief; but if the rains hold off much longer, the state of things will probably become very serious.

9. Under these circumstances, I request that I may be authorized to advance funds to the extent noted below:—

	Rs.
For relief works	3,000
„ gratuitous relief	2,000
„ tuccavi advances	5,000

I consider this sum will be required. I can assure the Government that great care will be taken in administering relief; gratuitous relief will not be given to any except those who actually need it, and are under the Famine Relief Code entitled to it; the relief operations will not be continued a day longer than they are needed.

10. I have ordered Rs. 1,000 worth of food-grains to be sent to Angul. Further supplies will be made, if necessary.

11. Enquiries as to the extent to which rent will have to be remitted are being made, and a separate report on the subject will be submitted in due course. I have authorized the tehsildar to commence at once works out of the 10 per cent. grant, and to administer gratuitous relief in extreme cases to those only who under the Famine Code are entitled to it. I trust this will meet with the approval of Government.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the crops in the different districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 22nd June 1889.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Mean of 5 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 21 stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy days is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 21st of June 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 21*st June* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 21ST OF JUNE 1889.

AT the close of the previous week the monsoon current had drifted over the greater part of the province, and, except over parts of Behar, rainfall had become fairly general. On Saturday, the 15th, owing to a rather rapid fall of pressure over South-West Bengal and the head of the Bay, while pressure had fallen only slightly over the interior stations, a very shallow area of low pressure was formed over West Bengal. A fairly strong and moist south-easterly and southerly current was on this day blowing over the east and north of the province, but over the western half winds were irregular. Rainfall on this day was fairly general in all districts, except South Behar, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. On the 16th a further rapid fall of pressure took place, which was largest in the north-east angle of the Bay, and on this day over some of the southern and south-eastern districts pressure was largely below the normal, the defect at Chittagong equalling 0·163 inch. This rapid fall in the north-east angle of the Bay was apparently due to the northerly or north-westerly advance of a very feeble and rather badly defined depression which had apparently been near Akyab on the previous day. The existence of this feeble depression caused an abnormal north-westerly wind to set in over the south and west of the province. Rainfall was again therefore light in most districts of the province, except over parts of South-West Bengal. On Monday, the 17th, the feeble depression had advanced into the province, and though a large shallow low-pressure area stretched from the head of the Bay to the foot of the hills, the centre of the depression was so feeble that the barometric pressures scarcely indicated its position, except for the fact that pressure was slightly low at Burrisal. A distinct cyclonic circulation of winds, however, was accompanying the diffused depression, and on this day the centre of the whirl appeared to be near Jessore. With the inland advance of the feeble depression, rather heavy rain commenced to fall in the southern and eastern districts, though rainfall continued to a great extent absent in Behar and over parts of Chutia Nagpur. On the 18th the low-pressure area had moved from between Jessore and Burrisal in a westerly direction, for while pressure rose very rapidly in the east and north of the province—so rapidly that the increase in some cases was nearly a fifth of an inch—on the other hand pressure was falling in Chutia Nagpur. On this day rainfall was less heavy in the eastern districts, but heavy falls were received at the western stations, where several stations received amounts of three, four, five and even six inches in the 24 hours. On the 19th, pressure rose rapidly, and in all the districts previously affected by the low-pressure area, the rise was so rapid that it equalled about a tenth of an inch, the rise being caused apparently by the further westerly or north-westerly advance of the depression, or perhaps by its partial filling up. On this day the general rainfall extended to almost every station in the province. On the last two days of the week, the pressure changes developed a feeble area of low pressure on the 21st along the foot of the hills, and this caused heavy rainfall at many of the northern stations; and on this day three stations in the Rungpore district (Kurigram, Bagdogra, and Ulipur) each reported from six and-a-half to seven and-a-quarter inches of rain.

Conditions, it will therefore be seen, have been fairly favourable for rain for the greater part of the week, and in South-West Bengal, North Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and Orissa the falls have been distinctly in excess of the normal, while elsewhere they have been almost equally in defect.

Pressure.—The principal daily changes of pressure have already been referred to For the whole week the mean pressure has been almost normal except at some stations in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, where moderate excess pressures have been recorded; while, on the other hand, defective pressures have been recorded in Assam. The variations from the normal, however, are, as a rule, not larger than about 0·02 inch.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature from the normal have not been very large. In East and North Bengal and North Behar the mean temperature for the week has been about 1° above the normal, while in Orissa, South-West Bengal, South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur it has been below it. For the whole province the mean temperature has been about 0·3° below the normal. In Assam temperature has been 1·9° above the normal.

Rainfall—Has been fairly heavy in all districts during the week. In South-West Bengal the average fall has been slightly more than four inches, while in East Bengal it has equalled 3·80 inches. In North Behar, North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, falls of between three and three-and-a-half inches have been received, and in Orissa the falls have averaged 2·40 inches. The smallest falls have occurred in South Behar, where the stations have only received an average amount of 1·44 inches. In the various districts the average number of rainy days has ranged from four in South Behar, up to six in East Bengal. The rainfall in South-West Bengal has been very considerably in excess of the normal, while in Chutia Nagpur, North Behar, and Orissa, the falls have also been in excess, but not by so large an amount. In East Bengal, North Bengal, and South Behar, on the other hand, the falls have been in defect by amounts ranging from about a third to a fifth of the normal fall. Some very heavy falls have been reported in various districts, and falls exceeding ten inches during the week have been received at the following stations:—Kukrahaty and Heria in the Midnapore district, at Buxa (Darjeeling Hills), Gondwara (Purneah), and at Alipur (Rungpore district); while falls exceeding nine inches have also been reported at Diamond Harbour, Dum-Dum, Khatra, Perozepore, Dinagepore, and Bagdogra.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 21st of June 1889 :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.
